Hardly Negotiable.
Stories have been told of buttons, tacks and various extraneous substances found in contribution boxes, but it is seldom that a church member strikes a blow so severe as was that delivered by Amos Budd of Potterville one occasion.

It was at the close of a missionary sermon that Mr. Budd, whose wont it was to contribute 10 cents to each of the charities to the support of which the church subscribed, was seen to take a blue slip from his pocket and look at it keenly and affectionately. When after a slight but evident hesi-tation he dropped the slip, carefully folded, into the box Deacon Lane, who was passing it, could hardly refrain from an exclamation of joy. "The Lord will bless you, Brother Budd," he said, when the sermon was over, hurrying down the aisle to overtake the prosperous grocer. "I hope so," returned Mr. Budd dry-ly, "but I'm afraid you cal'late on that being a check that I dropped in the box. It wa'n't. 'Twas a receipted bill for kerosene the church owed me last year, and it had been overlooked. Of course it's jest the same as money, though, when you come to that"-Youth's Companion.

What His Music Bill Meant. An architect who had planned and superintended the building of a west side residence had turned over the completed house to its owner. The architect had been in nowise hampered in the expenditure of money, yet his customer, being a good business man, gave his personal attention to the de talls of the cost.

"What does this mean?" he asked on a final inspection of the bills. "Three undred dollars to a quartet of traine musicians. How can anybody have given a concert already in my house when no one is living there?"

"They were testing the acoustics of the rooms," the architect explained. Every room in your house has been submitted to that test. There will be plenty of music there later on, and I certainly wouldn't want to finish the house without being sure that the sounding properties were satisfactory. In these days every private house or hotel that amounts to anything is put through the acoustic test before it leaves the architect's hands."—New York Sun.

Blind Men's Dreams.

One of the most intelligent inmates of a blind asylum, who came into the world blind, says that he never dreams of the things he has read about and never dreams of any thing or person that he has not in some way come in personal contact with. He dreams of music, of the voices of persons he knows, of such incidents as might  happen at the home or in some place in which he has actually been, but never of incidents in other places or in other lands. Even although he has read descriptions of localities, of natural beauties, of the appearance of a street or a city, no idea of what they look like comes to him in the fancies of his sleep. There is a class of blind people who become blind when quite young. Such blind people never dream of any scene or object except those which have remained in the memory from what they actually saw before they became blind .- Pearson's Weekly

Most people not without education and a general knowledge of natural history are mystified by the presence of fish in inclosed waters. For many years there was open mouthed wonder found in the newly cut dams near the Macquarie river, in New South Wales. In some cases the water had scarcely settled after the rain had filled the dam than the fish were observed, and the Australian farmers started a the ory of spontaneous production. This obtained and gained wide credence until a Sydney professor chanced to pick up a wild duck and found its breas feathers and webbed feet well dotted with fartile and almost hatched fish ova, on which the "spontaneous pro-duction" theory was promptly withdrawn.-St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Old Time Mountebanks. Coryat, describing the mountebank he saw at Venice in the seventeenth century, who were adepts in the art o advertising, speaks of the "oration the audience of haif an hour long wherein he doth most hyperbolically extol the virtues of his drugs and cor fections, though many of them are very counterfeit and false." And the author of a "Tour Through England" (1723) writes of a mountebank he saw in Winchester: "He cures all disease and sells his packets for sixpence aplece. * * * It is a prodigy how so wise a people as the English are gulled by such pickpockets."

Billiousness and Constipation. For years I was troubled with bilious ness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality Pepsin preparations and catartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the liver lablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally.—MES. Rosa POTTS, Birmingham, Ala. The Cripple and His Father. Not even the wide flapping trousers of his sailor suit could wholly hide the lender form wasting away from lack of use. Smoldering brown eyes illuminated the little face, made wizen by hours of pain, as he smiled up at the tall man at his side, who, broad of shoulder and strong of face, smiled back encouragingly.

A troop of small boys noisily invaded the car at the next station. Reckless in their good spirits, one of their number was roughly pushed against a crutch, causing it to fall to the floor. The man's eyes blazed more with anguish than with anger as he exclaimed harshly, "Be careful!"

The sturdy urchins, awed at what had occurred, subsided in seats opposite. The man looked over their heads into space. The child looked first at the boys, then with questioning eyes back at the man.

"Fawther," he whispered as he lightly touched his sleeve, "would you love me better if I was like those boys?" The man gave a startled glance across the aisle at "those boys," insolent in their perfect health and boyhood vigor, then tightly grasping the hand nearest to him said: "No, son. I love you better than all the worldjust as you are."-New York Times.

In the days "bero" de wah" a handy negro named Jack was saving money earned at odd times with which to buy his freedom. His master encouraged him and kept his money for him. In time Jack had saved $900 and needed only another hundred to make him free. His master told him that it wouldn't be long now until he could get another hundred. Jack went out with another slave to celebrate some local festival. Returning along the railroad track they were frightened by an approaching train. Both got off the track, but Jack's companion fell and, striking his head against a rock, was killed. Jack hurried as rapidly as he could to his master's house. It was a late hour, but the master must hear him. He said, "Gimme mah money right now." The astonished master remonstrated, saying, "But, Jack, you the perch, bream and crayfish need only another hundred dollars to get free." "I knows it, Mars' Henry, I mows it, but niggers is too onsartin Bill jes' killed hisself by bustin' his head agin a rock, an' I ain' gwine inves' mah money in nothin' as onsartin as niggers."-Washington Herald.

Grieg as a Schoolboy. Grieg, the noted composer, was not a pattern schoolboy. In a description of his days at school he wrote: "Knowing that by arriving late I would not be allowed to enter the class until the end of the first lesson, I used, on wet morn-ings, to stand under a dripping roof until I was soaked to the skin. master then sent me home to change my clothes, but the distance being long this was equivalent to giving me a dispensation. You may guess that I played this prank pretty often, but when at last I carried it so far as to come one day wet through, though it had hardly rained at all, they became suspicious and kept a lookout. One fine day I was caught and made an in-timate acquaintance with the birch."— St. James' Gazette,

A Peculiar Cold.

Sims Reeves had been announced to sing at a small public dinner at which Dickens presided, and, as happen not infrequently, Sims Reeves h something the matter with his throat and was unable to attend. Dickens announced this, and the announ was received with a general laugh of ncredulity. This made Dickens very angry, and he rose manfully to the de-fense of the delinquent. "My friend, Sims Reeves," he said quietly, "regrets his inability to fulfill his engage ment owing," he added, with caustic severity, "to an unfortunately amus ing and highly facetious cold."

Large Doings.
On Long Island a hundred and more years ago there was fox hunting for three days during the season, and the biography of Catherine Schuyler con-tains the following apt lines from the pen of a witty woman whose name remains unknown:

A fox is killed by twenty men.
That fox perhaps had killed a hen.
A gallant act no doubt is here.
All wieked foxes ought to foar
When twenty dogs and twenty men
Can kill a fox that killed a hen. "Sammy," said a Germantown moth

"No, ma'am," replied Sammy, "I knew they wouldn't come out even, so I ate one before I began to divide,"-Harper's Weekly.
